To whom it concerns,

I think the settlement is a betrayal of America. It is an insult to suggest that the terms of the settlement are sufficient. Micro$oft will continue its predatory approach to the software market and will continue to hold institutes of education to ransom. It is time to resolve the issue and extract adequate compensation from Microsoft for the companies that have been damaged and for every child whose education costs rise as a result of disgusting licensing terms. It is also necessary so the collective power and choice of a free market can begin to thrive in the software market.
